TechPoint at Moody Library Unveils New Reservation System to Student Body

Starting in the Spring semester of 2019, Moody Library's TechPoint service is unveiling a new reservation system to patrons. This new system is located within the LibCal service and allows the TechPoint inventory to be accessed online and reservations made up to two weeks in advance. Patrons also have access to the schedules of the increasingly popular media lab and video booth, as well as the Dotty S. Riley Conference Room and the East Wall, and can make reservations for these spaces in advance as well.

This system update will decrease confusion among patrons with regards to reserving services such as laptops since the whole inventory is located online for public viewing. The preapproval quiz and tags will be removed with the new system taking advantage of the Duo security feature Baylor uses as means to identify currently enrolled students.

TechPoint understands that there will be a rough period while students and faculty become accustomed to the new checkout model, but feels that overall this new system is a move in a smart direction for every party involved. The new model allows for more convenient checkout processes for both patrons and the employees handling the technology, and also has a new way to handle fines that can be viewed at baylor.edu/lib/techpoint/pay

To view the inventory that TechPoint offers to students and faculty, please visit techpoint.libcal.com.

If any assistance is needed, please reach out to TechPoint at techpoint@baylor.edu, (254) 710-8324, or visit the help desk in the Garden Level of Moody Library.
